

Dual Degree Programs

Suleyman Demirel University is committed to developing strong dual degree programs with some of the world's most famous universities. These programs allow students to receive two separate diplomas: one from SDU and one from the partner institution. The principle of dual degree programs is that students complete some of their courses at SDU and the rest at the partner institution, with credits being recognized by both. All classes are taught in English. Students pay tuition where they study at that time. Usually, the number places for dual degree programs are limited and competitive. Completing a dual degree program increases the students' employability after they graduate, providing them with more and better job opportunities, both in Kazakhstan and abroad.
